FIRE SERVICE MORTAR: THE CRITICAL ROLE OF THE COMPANY OFFICER

This course will provide the essential tools needed to lead from the front as a Company Officer and build an effective team of high performers. The Company Officer truly is the mortar in any fire department. They can keep their department running strong and efficient with their example, attitude, and passion. Jarrod will pull from his military leadership experience as well as his current role as a Company Officer. Key concepts discussed will be preparation, credibility, leadership traits, training, team building, values, conflict resolution and more. Jarrod will also use several case studies to address the burden of leadership. It is his goal to demonstrate just how critical strong company level leadership is to the overall success of your organizations. Fire Service Mortar is meant to inspire action and produce results in your company, your station, and your department. Register today if you want the tools today to make change tomorrow.
